SEE ILL HEALTH AS REASON FOR SHEPHERD BAIL

Man Accused of Murdering Foster-son Said to Be Suffering With Diabetes

INQUEST IS ADJOURNED

McClintock's Fiance Also Is Ill and Will Not Be Able to Attend Trial

By Associated Press
Chicago—The legal battle to obtain the release on bail of William D. Shepherd, indicted on a charge of inoculating his foster son, William N. McClintock, with typhoid fever germs, was resumed Monday.

The inquest, which had been scheduled to be resumed Monday, was continued indefinitely. The coroner and other interested parties expected however to fix a date when testimony would be resumed.

Olson of the municipal court announced that he had subpoenaed several new witnesses for the hearing. Their names were not divulged. With Shepherd's attorneys prepared to make every effort to bring about his freedom, it was indicated that the condition of the McClintock heir's health might be brought forward. It was reported that Shepherd is suffering from diabetes.

Charles F. Davis, head of a science school, whose story that he furnished typhoid germs to Shepherd on agreement that he would share in McClintock's $1,000,000 estate, resulted in his own indictment along with Shepherd, was expected to resume the witness stand at the bail hearing.

FIANCE ILL
Counsel for Miss Isabelle Pope, who was to have married Young McClintock, said Monday the reports from California of the condition of her health were disquieting. Friends of Miss Pope said that the shock of her fiancé's death and the strain of the last few days of his life, when at his request she obtained a license to wed him, combined with two appearances at the inquest have proved too much for her.

State's Attorney Crowe said that a week ago he was advised that calling Miss Pope to testify at the grand jury hearing would be harmful to her. His reply was for her to remain in California and recuperate pending Shepherd's trial.

Mrs. Shepherd spent the night in her home in Kenilworth, a suburb under police guard. She had advised authorities that she had received several threatening telephone calls and letters.

Massmeeting Called To Fight New Tax Bill

With a taxbill about to be passed by the Wisconsin assembly that will saddle an increased burden on farmer, merchant and the public when the state has fat balances in its treasury, citizens of Outagamie-co will join in a massmeeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium to hear the bill discussed and perhaps adopt resolutions to be sent to the local assemblymen. Haste is required as the bill is up for hearing at Madison at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

All persons who are interested in seeing the taxes held at least where they are now and a program of economy enacted in state administration are invited to attend the session. It is expected that a large number of farmers will emulate the aggressiveness in this matter shown in Richland-co, where they waded through snowdrifts a week ago to attend one of the largest gatherings ever held.

A group of men who have been at Madison on tax matters and at other meetings where the tax legislation has been thoroughly explained and aired will be present to tell the public just where the proposed measure will affect them. The main issue is the repeal of the personal property offset on income taxes, as this means a much heavier tax for the farmer and for the merchant, manufacturer and many others.

The bill before the assembly contains repeal of the offset. It already has been passed by the state senate, and must be stopped in the assembly if it is not to become a law, according to men interested in the issue. It is expected that a large number of people will be present, as the issue affects them all.

COOLIDGE HOLDS BACK GUARDS PAY

If no Money Is Forthcoming, Drills May Be Stopped Until June 30

By Associated Press
Washington—President Coolidge Monday ordered an investigation to determine whether it is necessary to spend the $1,300,000 appropriated in the deficiency bill for pay of national guard members for drill work, directing that payments be withheld meanwhile.

The amount was appropriated to meet payments between now and June 30, but because it is over the budget bureau estimate, the president ordered the investigation. Dwight F. Davis, acting secretary of war said after a conference Monday with Mr. Coolidge, a report on the necessity for the fund would be submitted immediately.

The budget bureau, in disapproving the item, took the view that this expense should be met by the various state governments. The president accepted that opinion but representatives of the national guard convinced that appropriations committee of congress to the contrary. Should Mr. Coolidge decline to spend the appropriation and should no state funds be provided for the purpose, national guards drills either would be suspended from now until June 30 or the guardsmen would be invited to drill without pay.

YOUTH, IMPRISONED FOR MONTH, ADMITS MURDER

By Associated Press
Rockford, Ill.—After a month's imprisonment during which he had denied the slaying of Charles G. Patterson, aged South Beloit, Ill., resident on February 20, Tony Marino sent for a Beloit relative and dated Friday and sobbed out a confession. Later in the day Marino, who is 19, made a formal confession, according to State's Attorney William D. Knight.

Marino, the authorities said, told that a young woman had spurred his advances and he believed it was because of his poverty stricken appearance. He decided to hold up Patterson, according to the prosecutor's statement, and the shooting occurred when he thought the old man intended to draw a weapon.

HAS GREAT LATITUDE

Transfers Patent Office to Commerce Department, Plans Other Changes

Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Herbert Hoover has gradually developed a role in the Coolidge administration which began with the Harding administration and means even greater latitude than before in recommending and suggesting changes in governmental machinery that make for efficiency.

The transfer of the patent office from the department of interior to the department of commerce was under authority of a law already on the statute books but it was no incidental transfer. It was the culmination of a series of developments principal among which is that American business has begun to cooperate with Secretary Hoover, and the latter in turn has left no stone unturned to satisfy American business that, so far as he is concerned, red tape will be severed and a short cut to getting things done quickly will always be sought.

Tornado Wrecked Villages Sadly Begin Huge Task of Rehabilitation

RED CROSS HAS BIG TASK Large Sums of Money Will Be Needed to Supply Food, Shelter, Medicine

By Associated Press
Indianapolis, Ind.—Rehabilitating southwestern Indiana, struck by a tornado last Wednesday which devastated Griffin and Owensville and destroyed the southern section of Princeton, was continued Monday despite the high waters of the Wabash and Black rivers which Sunday night virtually isolated Griffin.

The high waters of the two rivers Sunday night inundated the lowlands about Griffin and covered the highways so that the only avenue for relieving supplies was over the branch line of the Illinois Central railroad. Workers Monday were using skiffs.

Governor Ed. Jackson who inspected the storm territory was forced to drive through a foot of water in leaving town. Reinforced military lines held back thousands of motorists seeking to visit the devastated quarters.

BURYING DEAD

Chicago—Saddened by the final tragedy of its greatest tornado disaster, the burial of its dead, southern Illinois and Indiana Monday turned undivided to the mammoth task of rehabilitation, through which it is planned every survivor of last Wednesday's catastrophe will be returned to the same conditions that existed before the territory was laid in ruins.

All injured have received medical attention, and all homeless have been provided with temporary shelter, it was announced. Many have got under way for a virtual rebuilding of the stricken areas.

A colossal task faced the agencies engaged in reconstruction work as arrangements were made for complete surveys of the storm territory. It was anticipated that four months or more would be required to clear hundreds of acres of ruins, restore thousands of shanties, homes, rebuild factories and establish systems of sanitation. Providing destitute families with means of making a living was an immediate need receiving attention.

PLAN RELIEF

Committees from several southern Illinois counties will meet this week to select a joint body which will direct all permanent relief work. Surveys have been made of the needs of the district.

Henry M. Baker, head of the disaster relief committee of the Red Cross, announced that his organization expects to rehabilitate every family affected by the storm. He also stated that an emergency unit of the Red Cross had been established in every stricken town and that temporary relief to the injured and homeless had been fully taken care of.

HEED SANITATION

Hand in hand with reconstruction will go sanitary rehabilitation and moves to protect the health of the sufferers and to guard against epidemics. Particular attention was paid to the water supply. Chlorine was supplied to many towns and well water was inspected and unsafe wells condemned.

A. P. Dappert, assistant Illinois sanitary engineer, arrived at Murphysboro with his staff to take charge of sanitary work. He said that the water supply was not up to standard, but that the department had the situation under control there as well as in other towns. Medical units constantly were inspecting all parts of the territory to prevent outbreak of disease.

Danger of an epidemic in Indiana was said to be remote with the arrival of additional medical supplies, including anti-tetanus serum and the advent of state sanitary officers. All water in the Indiana area also was being chlorinated.

Brief and simple funeral services were held Sunday for most of the victims. Turn to page 2, col. 2

D. A. R. SOOTHES ALIEN'S SOJOURN WITH HANDIWORK

Ellis Island Is Something Else
Now Than Scene of Quar-
rels Among Women

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—One of the new and perhaps one of the most interesting activities of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is the work which is being done under the auspices of Ellis Island. As is well known a great number of immigrants upon reaching Ellis Island are detained because for one reason or another they cannot comply with the necessary requirements for admittance into the United States.

Formerly there was nothing with which these unfortunate creatures might occupy themselves during their stay. They were frightened and not a little suspicious of those who had so unexpectedly detained them. They found themselves in a place of strange customs and strange language. The result was restlessness and unhappiness which eventually resulted in quarrels. This was particularly true of the women. There were no books and no newspapers, and many of them ended in the universal language of fists. The Federal Government found itself in the difficult position of being hard put to control them.

About two years ago it asked the cooperation of the Daughters of the American Revolution in alleviating this situation. In response to this call the women agreed to supply these women with needlework. Accordingly a director who speaks Italian, French, Spanish and enough German to give her a contact with the races of Central Europe, was placed in charge of this work. Every morning she gives out material through a little window which has been opened by one woman. The director of the work is Miss J. M. C. A. Hard work and helpfulness to others are the quickest ways to happiness. Mr. Steinhauser said. After his talk he told many experiences in his life, and Arthur Tuttle, Lawrence college senior, played several piano selections. The meeting was concluded by three reels of motion pictures, two on life at the Zoo and the other a Trip Through the Yosemite Valley.

IMMEDIATELY SUCCESSFUL
The success of this plan was instantaneous. The women stopped fighting and congregated in groups to sew or knit together. The skilled offered ready aid and advice to those not so well trained. It is said that the variety of article made would stock a village dry goods store. There is everything from a simple flannel to the most exquisite baby dress embroidered with meticulous care.

One Armenian girl made a small American flag during her second day of detention. It was done with an ordinary needle and bits of red, white and blue cotton. Another woman embroidered the story of her life on an unbleached muslin dress. Judging by the symbols used, her career must have been checkered. She included on it the flower of her native land, the boat in which she came to America, the building on Ellis Island and the Capitol at Washington.

The individual chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution contribute the funds to carry on this service and in addition to this send boxes of miscellaneous materials to augment the regular stock of supplies. Recently Major Curran, Commissioner of Immigration on Ellis Island, asked the Society to extend its activities to include the men in what is termed the "warrent case" detention room. Here are men against whom criminal charges are pending; often they have been liberated from prison in the country from which they came. They hope to begin life anew in America. Very often their detention is of indeterminate length. Formerly they had no occupation and very little attention and were regarded on the island as a dangerous element.

The experiment met with the same success that it did in the case of the women. These men are now making everything from embroidered handbags and knitted ties to hook rugs. Some even make very presentable clothes for themselves on a sewing machine which has been installed. One young man who had been in this detention room for twenty-seven months, and who was consequently bitter, defiant and most unhappy, is viewing the world with a more hopeful outlook since he has been given work to do. He depicted the shield of the United States with the spread eagle above it. By this symbol he has expressed his gratitude.

EXTEND SERVICE
The Daughters are instituting a similar service on Angel Island on the Pacific Coast. This project is still in its infancy but it is expected to meet with the same success as that on Ellis Island in the east.

In addition to making the lot of the prospective foreign born citizen easier, the Daughters are aiding in the establishment and work of schools for the native born among the Southern mountains. They assist in financing of twelve mountain schools and one Indian school. The only school which they fully maintain and control, however, is the one at Tamassee, South Carolina. This school is located on the ground which was granted to General Andrew Pickens by the Federal Government for his services in the Revolutionary War and in the Indian War. The school is conducted as a day school for children, a boarding school for young girls, a night school for adults and a community center for the entire neighborhood.

The legend of the name "Tamassee" is itself interesting. It is said that the meaning of this Indian word is "Mountain of Sunshine." Here lived an old Indian medicine man who cured the ill of his tribe with the aid of a great rube. When he died he was buried with the rubs of top of his mountain. And the sunshine departed. Now, it is said the sunshine has returned to Tamassee since the school of the Daughters has been established here. Since the National Society of the

WANT OBSERVANCE OF GOOD FRIDAY

Valley courts of Catholic Order of Foresters were urged to use their influence about public recognition of observance of Good Friday at a meeting of the Fox River Valley Catholic Order of Foresters association at New London Sunday afternoon. Chief judges deputy high chief judges and members of courts in the valley. It was the regular spring meeting. A movement was started to bring to a successful conclusion the forty second anniversary membership campaign inaugurated by the high court of the order. The forty second anniversary will be celebrated May 23-25.

Cooperation between different Catholic societies in a community in an effort to arrange programs for the united membership of the societies was urged. It was voted to hold the next annual valley picnic at DePue. The relief association will hold its next meeting in Appleton or Waukegan. Choice of place to be left to the officers.

The association hoped that the public would recognize Good Friday by closing down business houses from at least 12 o'clock to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, possibly all afternoon.

times in five states, while preachers of all denominations asked for divine guidance in church services Sunday.

LIST OF DEAD
A further check of casualty lists Monday brought a few changes in individual items, but did not materially affect the totals. Deaths stood at 526 with 2,998 injured or a total casualty count of 3,765 but slightly reduced from figures tabulated by the Associated Press the first day of the disaster. Deaths by states were: Illinois 28; Indiana 109; Tennessee 33; Kentucky 18; Missouri 14.

Five additional deaths occurred at Murphysboro, bringing the identified dead there to 194, but relief workers estimated that 20 or more persons were incinerated.

MANY NEW GRAVES
Murphysboro, chief sufferer from the tornado, buried nearly fifty of its dead Sunday with services in the square. Other funerals in the public square Other funerals were to be held Monday. Most of the city's homeless were living in tents and Sunday 5,000 persons were fed at public relief stations. The first shooting since the arrival of troops was reported when a negro was shot in the leg as the result of an altercation with a soldier. An unusual number of fires broke out in the ruins has added to problems of relief.

DeSoto, the little village of 500 which was blown away, has finished burying its dead. The country cemetery has 50 fresh mounds, with only rude wooden crosses carrying pencilled names as markers. Thirty of DeSoto's 70 dead were children. Some families have returned to the village and are attempting to reestablish a makeshift home, but the general opinion is that the village will never be rebuilt.

Murphysboro—The people of Murphysboro itself claim that the damage here from the tornado and fire will run much higher than the $3,000,000 estimated at the time of the storm. The damage at the Mobile and Ohio railroad shops alone some business men estimated will exceed $1,000,000 while their estimate of total damage at the city is $10,000,000.

Daughters of the American Revolution was first organized it has dedicated itself to the marking of historical sites and the collection of bone fide colonial relics. The marking of historic sites is generally done by means of a table on which is inscribed the outstanding facts relating to that particular spot. One chapter has recently, however, hit upon the plan of restoring an old custom house and making of it a chapter house.

The Society has a very valuable collection of historical relics. Many young men who had been in this detention room for twenty-seven months, and who was consequently bitter, defiant and most unhappy, is viewing the world with a more hopeful outlook since he has been given work to do. He depicted the shield of the United States with the spread eagle above it. By this symbol he has expressed his gratitude.

RELIEF CAMPAIGN GETS SLOW START

Outagamie so hardly woke up over the weekend to the part it is expected to play in relieving the sufferings of those in the tornado torn areas of Illinois and Indiana. Only a small sum had been given up to Monday noon in response to the appeal for relief made by the chamber of commerce after receiving heart rending telegrams from the stricken cities. Homer L. Bowlin was the first to contribute.

It is believed that this county ought to give several thousand dollars with record speed and once its people are aroused, the chamber is sure that the money will be forthcoming. No disaster of this kind even though it were as far away as Japan, has gone unheeded.

A meeting of community welfare committee of chamber of commerce will be held to make plans for a quick campaign, lasting perhaps a week. It is argued that the money is needed instantaneously. If it is to accomplish the purpose of relieving suffering and saving lives, families are homeless and seeking some kind of temporary shelter. Thousands are wounded in makeshift hospitals and money is needed for their comfort and medical aid.

BADGER LAWMAKER HEADS COMMITTEE PROBING AVIATION

Congressman Lampert Will Be Big Figure in Next Congressional Air Battle

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—On the strength of the sixty-eighth Congress' investigation of aviation, the sixty-ninth is going to do something about it.

STEWART

Representative J. Mayhew Wainwright of New York, chairman of a special aeronautics subcommittee of the House military committee and former assistant secretary of war, is planning action already. This will depend to some extent on the report of the select House committee under the chairmanship of Representative Florian Lampert of Wisconsin which has been investigating the army and navy air services during recent months, but that report will favor a vigorous aviation development program is a foregone conclusion.

The big fight will be between advocates of a separate cabinet portfolio of the air and those who believe it better that the army and navy should continue as at present, each in control of its own individual aeronautical service.

VIEW NOT KNOWN

The Lampert committee's view on this question is not known yet and the probabilities are the committee men have not definitely made up their own minds yet. A majority of them gave no indication of having been deeply impressed by the arguments of Brig Gen. William Mitchell, assistant army chief, who so emphatically demands a distinct department.

Still, the plan has exceedingly powerful opposition. President Coolidge Secretaries Weeks and Wilbur most army officers and practically all navy men are against it.

In the face of all this opinion it seems rather doubtful if the Mitchell plan will get the full Lampert committee's endorsement through a minority report in its favor would not be surprising.

At any rate it is quite certain the committee will put a higher value on aeronautics than is placed on them by most military men, who recognize them as vitally important in both land and sea warfare, but do not admit that they promise to supplant either surface armies or fleets.

LIKES MITCHELL'S IDEA

The report may not say expressly that this view is old fogish but that is about what it will mean. It will express the further conviction that, in army as well as in navy, aviation has been neglected hitherto.

The committee, in short, is pretty well "sold" on the Mitchell idea, with the possible exception of the detail of a separate department.

Representative Wainwright's purpose is to get down to business as soon as Congress meets next December, or sooner if a special session is called.

The expectation is that the framing of an aviation program will be done by a special subcommittee of both the Senate and House military and naval affairs committees.

The Curry bill, providing for creation of an air department, also will be introduced at the next session.

Senators Not Anxious To Adopt Filibuster Rule

BY HARRY B. HUNT
Washington—Extremes of temperament and personality are exemplified by Calvin Coolidge, president, and Charles G. Dawes, vice president.

This is strikingly illustrated by a comparison of the inaugural address of Coolidge, when he was installed as vice president four years ago, with the address of Dawes, which set the Senate by the ears when he took office last week. Coolidge, in a repressed, quiet, brief address, said in substance that he recognized the Senate's right to make its own rules and order its own procedure, and that he would confine himself to an impartial administration of those rules.

Dawes, vehement, irascible, the atypical, read the Senate a lecture and served a warning.

The answer to the Dawes criticism was the prompt submission by Senator Underwood, Alabama Democrat, of an amendment to cure the ill of which Dawes most bitterly complained, namely unlimited debate.

This was done to put the burden of responsibility for failure to amend the rules along the lines suggested by Dawes up to Dawes' own party, the Republicans.

The fact is, of course, that a rule putting the lid lightly on Senate debate is no more desired by the leaders of the Republican majority than it is by the Democratic minority.

In the present situation, with Republicans in control, the existing rules do enable Democrats to filibuster. But the "ins" recognize that sooner or later they will be the "outs" and when that time comes the advantage of unlimited debate may be a life saver for them.

Republicans, in fact, more often than the Democrats, have invoked the filibuster as the means of blocking legislation.

The historic filibuster against the Wilson shipping bill, which kept the Senate in session day and night for a full two weeks, with members sleeping on cots in the corridors and anterooms, was a Republican filibuster.

So was the most famous one-man filibuster, when Senator Burton held the floor for more than 40 hours to defeat a Democratic river and harbor bill.

Senator LaFollette, as a Republican was one of the G O P's prize filibusters.

A much more probable solution to the problem pitchforked into the Senate by Dawes is the proposal of Senator Norris to convene the Congress yearly on Jan 1.

This would serve a double purpose. It would end the present practice of having a session of Congress following elections, in which many members defeated for re-election continued to sit and it would end the "short session."

SEEK COLE FAMILY THAT LIVED HERE 40 YEARS AGO

Postmaster William Zuehlke has received a letter from a Mrs. Eda Cole, Elmore, Alberta, Canada, requesting his aid in locating relatives said to have lived in this section 40 years ago. Mrs. Cole, who says she "is in deep affliction" wrote that the Cole family lived on a farm six miles from Appleton until about 40 years ago, when the farm was sold and the family scattered. Mrs. Cole was told there were three boys and two girls in the family. The girls were named Emma and Kate, and two of the boys Edward and William. Mrs. Cole does not know the name of the third boy.

The author of the letter suggests that inquiries among old settlers might reveal the whereabouts of her relatives.

Board of Control Wants Huge Sum for Next Two Year Period

Madison—Hearings on the ten million dollar budget requests of the state board of control for the next two years will be held this week by the joint finance committee of the legislature. The hearings are scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The budget for the operation, maintenance, construction and equipment at the state eleemosynary and penal institutions, requested by the board for the period from July 1, 1925 to July 1, 1927 amounts to $10,138,137.

Of this sum, $4,941,132 is asked for miscellaneous expenditures and $670,070 for coal and insurance, a total of $5,615,262.

Special capital requests of $3,922,775 make up the remainder of the total asked. The capital requests are to cover extensions of existing institutions to provide for a new hospital for the insane, a crippled children's hospital, a baby hospital, added capacity to the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training school, the Southern Wisconsin Colony and Training school, the state hospital at Mendota, the industrial home for women and the Tomahawk Lake camp, school facilities at Sparta, the Northern and Southern Wisconsin colonies and training schools, and other construction and equipment.

The total budget requested for the next biennium amounts to $4,853,022 more than for 1923-25, according to the control board's statement to the board of public affairs. This is made necessary, the board stated, to cover a new program of medical, educational and supervisory service, "calculated to achieve better results in the treatment and training" of the 4,000 state wards, and for building needs.

LEAD—

THE MAN FROM VERMONT

While the senate in refusing confirmation of Mr. Warren as attorney-general was actuated largely by political motives, it seems to have unwittingly performed a public service in securing Mr. Coolidge's second choice, John Garibaldi Sargent, as attorney-general. From present appearances Mr. Sargent, is the kind of man of whom it were better for all of us that there were more of his kind in the public service. To the first person who congratulated him upon his appointment he responded: "Thanks, Mike, pray for me. That's all I ask."

There is a mixture of homely humor and solemn thought in his statement that looks well for the disposition he may bring to the performance of his public duties. The press dispatches indicate that, like Coolidge, he is a man of few words. A big fellow, weather-tanned, taking his vacations on the farm, not only unafraid of but relishing physical labor.

There is something about these Vermonters, their history and their antecedents, their honesty and lack of sham, their disregard for material wealth and their insistence upon keeping the government of their fathers as clean and as wholesome as it has been in the past, that will make them attractive to the country at large. Instinctively they seem to know why the United States has a constitution and what it means. They seem to have the American revolutionary spirit for a strong, orderly government. Theories, however sugar-coated, and isms, however attractively clad, are not gulped down without a careful understanding of their contents. They do not seem to care a great deal for theatricals. Wild gestures and flourishes do not appear to throw them off their track. Well coined phrases and floods of oratory fail to prevent them from examining the merits of a controversy. And this is but natural because they guide their public steps by cool, well-seasoned logic. They do not seem to care particularly for public office. They do not appear to seek it. But once being placed in a position of public trust their method of administration is so honest and free from guile that they ultimately secure the admiration and support of those who think.

The people will find that the Vermont type of officeholder, at least as exemplified by Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Sargent, perhaps entitled to be called the strictly American kind of politicians, will leave the government, when their terms of office are up, in a much better condition than they found it, and that while they occupy their respective positions they will perform the duties of their offices without regard to the matter of their reelection.

We need many more Coolidges and Sargents in the public service, and a few more of them in the senate, particularly, would do no harm.

MORE SLANDER FROM LA FOLLETTE

Mr. La Follette, who has been sojourning the past winter in the Florida sunshine, has come back to Washington to participate in the sittings of the senate. He had no sooner arrived at Washington than he uttered the declaration that the present administration is the most reactionary since James Buchanan was president and bowed his knee to the slave owners in the South and "that the American government is now completely under the dominion of great private economic interests."

To start with, the statement is not accurate in its charges against President

Buchanan. Mr. Buchanan did not bow his knee to the slave owners of the South. He undertook what turned out to be the impossible task of joining the North and the South in friendship. At the time he tried to avert the civil war slave owning was permissible under the constitution of the United States. Mr. La Follette might just as well have included Abraham Lincoln along with James Buchanan, because when Mr. Lincoln was president he, too, "bowed his knee to the slave owners of the South" in that he assured them that their slave holdings would be protected under his administration. Tens of thousands of lives were sacrificed in the Civil war before Mr. Lincoln, as a war measure, issued the proclamation freeing the slaves; and that proclamation contained the provision that if the South would cease the conflict within a certain time the slaves would not be freed. Mr. La Follette would be careful not to class Abraham Lincoln as a reactionary. Lincoln's humble origin, his great struggle through life, his tragic death and his immense popularity among the masses of the people would not make it a politic thing to call him a reactionary.

As to Mr. Coolidge, the situation is somewhat different. He occupies the office which the American people refused to permit Mr. La Follette to occupy. There is therefore, just reason to call forth plenty of wrath against him. And yet it is difficult to understand why Mr. Coolidge has become an enemy of the public. The blood of his forebears has flecked every American battlefield in preservation of the liberties of the people and the future of the nation. His origin was about as humble as Lincoln's. He worked through early life as any farmer boy would work on the farm where much work was to be done. His tastes and habits are simple. He has no material wealth. Every time he has been elected to office, those who elected him, as soon as the occasion permitted, promoted him to higher positions. And yet as soon as he becomes president, a strange, a subtle and a mysterious metamorphosis sets in. His former apparent affection for the people and his country goes sour. Mr. La Follette would have us believe that Mr. Coolidge is not a patriotic statesman, but in fact a sort of Benedict Arnold, who after election to office sells out the very ones whose interests he is sworn to protect. In fact, it would seem that Mr. Coolidge hates America, despises the constitution and wants to wreck the land as soon as he may. We are given no reason why this change has taken place in the president, but so long as Mr. La Follette says it, that should be sufficient.

The truth of it is that Mr. La Follette cannot understand Mr. Coolidge, nor can he understand the reason for the great popularity of the president. Mr. Coolidge is a statesman. Mr. La Follette understands politicians better. On the eve of the election Mr. Coolidge vetoed the soldier's bonus bill. Politicians do not understand that sort of an act. It would seem to the politician that such a veto would lose votes. It seemed to Mr. Coolidge that his veto was right. That was enough for him. Also, just prior to the election Mr. Coolidge vetoed the act of congress increasing the wages of postal employees. He pointed out that congress had raised the wages of postal employees upwards of $60,000,000 annually without making any provision for raising the money to pay them. Congress thereafter made provision to raise the necessary revenue and Mr. Coolidge signed the bill. The postal employees found that their true friend was not a careless congress, which merely made a promise to give them more, but a practical president who required congress to furnish the money so that their salary checks could be honored.

The tirade of Mr. La Follette against the president will find approval in but few places. It will be approved wherever unfounded slander is considered a delectable morsel. People who read and think for themselves and who are fair-minded will place no credence in such a bitter and unwarranted attack. We rather opine that the president will not even notice it.

Health Talks

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

LOCKPORT LEADS THE WAY.

While our federal public health department carries on studies and surveys of the goiter situation and our various state health departments maintain for the most part that a somnolent attitude and municipal health authorities about the country wonder what they ought to do about it, and more and more school children present signs of goiter, the city of Lockport, Niagara county, New York state, with a population of 25,000, solves the problem of goiter prevention in the simplest and perhaps the most effective way. Dr. Thomas E. Spalding, health officer, compiled, as he says, after much travail, perspiration and midnight electricity, a circular for distribution among the people, particularly through the public and parochial and private schools, and the circular is so much to the point that I am taking the liberty of printing it here:

TO THE PARENT OF BEARER
The pubescent age (11 to 15) in children in this section of the country is characterized by a strong tendency to GOITER, OR ENLARGEMENT OF THE LARGE GLAND IN THE FRONT OF THE NECK, WHICH IS DEFORMING AND SOMETIMES SERIOUS. Many Lockport children are affected in this manner to some extent.

This gland is easily and positively prevented from enlarging by taking SODIUM IODIDE, a harmless salt.

DIRECTIONS.
It is earnestly recommended that IODIZED SALT be used in the households in place of ordinary salt. IODIZED SALT is simply ordinary salt to which has been added a small amount of SODIUM IODIDE. The taste is the same as the ordinary salt. IODIZED SALT can be bought at various stores in this city and your dealer will have it in stock if you ask for it.

If children already have GOITER or show indications of ENLARGEMENT OF THE NECK, it is earnestly recommended that they be taken to a physician for treatment.

February, 1925 Lockport, N. Y.
On the day I write, it is reported that 4,200 of these circulars have been distributed to the school children to be taken to their parents. The Lockport health officer has evidently found that best way to teach health, for this excellent little circular will no doubt reach every home in the city and convey to every family the knowledge of the way to prevent goiter. Thus early in the Lockport campaign against goiter (and I should add various other ailments due to a shortage of food iodine) about six tons of iodized salt has been sold by the grocers who handle it and no doubt it will become a sort of staple, once it is adopted by the family. The various salt companies market a standard two pound carton of the ordinary free running salt iodized as recommended by the health authorities, for 15 cents retail, practically what ordinary salt sells for.

The Lockport health officer is receiving the congratulations of representatives of the federal, state and many municipal health departments and he deserves them, for as I say, while the others carry on abstruse discussions, hold conferences and propose more or less impractical remedies, Tom—I mean Dr. Thomas E. Spalding, Lockport's wide awake health guardian, simply gets out some little handbills which tell the people everything they need to know about it. What this country needs is an epidemic of public health administration after the Spalding fashion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Clubby Subject.
Please print something on "Food Value in Health Restoration." I am supposed to write a paper on that subject, to be read before a woman's club. I can find plenty of material in our public library on food values, but the "restoration of health" is what is puzzling me. (Mrs. S. J.)

Answer—Most foods which are used in their natural form and not too much "prepared" are valuable in health restoration—that is, they are good in the diet of sick or convalescent people who want to get well. Many foods which are popularly deemed good "invalid foods" are undesirable because they have been so altered in "preparation" that they do not supply very essential factors such as vitamins, mineral salts and natural flavor.

ROLLO

Romantic Days And Busy Times Passe On Volga

(From The Literary Digest.)
Life on the far-famed Volga river is slowly ebbing out. The great 2,300-mile yellow stream, once Russia's greatest maritime highway, no longer courses its winding way to the sound of fisherman's songs, the churning of the wheels of great excursion steamers, or the echoing sirens of heavily laden cargo boats.

The hundreds of villages which drew their life from the river are melancholy, spiritless places, for the people not only are faced with a wheat famine this year, but their fishing business, which is their chief support, is in all but dead.

Where in pre-war days the Volga produced 2,000,000,000 pounds of fish and caviar annually, it now yields only one-tenth that quantity. This is no fault of the river, but of the government to exploit it properly. The government at first nationalized the fisheries and, finding that a failure, it restored the fishery enterprises to their original owners.

But the owners have found the government taxes too enormous and many of them have abandoned their business altogether. Only 70 of the 800 fisheries which formerly operated at Astrakhan, the great caviar depot, have resumed their activities.

NO PLEASURE TRAFFIC

But it is in the striking decrease in the number of excursion and cargo steamers that one notices the most significant change in the Volga. Where previously the river was covered with thousands of commercial and pleasure craft, it now carries only occasional passenger steamers and small cargo boats. In every bend and inlet in the river the visitor sees scores of abandoned excursion steamers slowly sinking to the bottom.

The few passenger vessels still on the river are well equipped, but they are patronized almost entirely by Russians of the proletarian class, for there are few foreigners in Russia, and members of the old intellectual regime have no money to make such trips.

One of the most pathetic scenes along the whole course of the river are the forests of abandoned fishing boats, whose slender masts, pointed toward the sky like huge fingers, seem to be calling to heaven to witness the death of their ancient and respected industry. The owners have turned to more lucrative callings.

In the absence of fisherman, one sees groups of sailors and longshoremen, who invariably complain of bad times and low wages. Work is difficult to obtain, and the longshoremen therefore are willing to discharge huge cargoes from vessels at the ridiculous rate of a cent for every 100 pounds.

Nature also seems bent on completing the economic ruin of the historic river for everywhere huge beds of moving sand are gathering, which block the river and imperil navigation. The sand-dredges are neither numerous enough nor sufficiently efficient to remove all these impediments to river traffic.

THE MOST FAMOUS CLUB IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

There is nothing in England or America today that can compare in fame with the Literary club which is usually associated with the name of Samuel Johnson. There have been some rather famous literary clubs in English history but perhaps not one of them can compare with the organization that is closely identified with eighteenth century English literature. It was organized in 1764 at Turk's Head Tavern, Gerrard-st. Scho. and that tavern has lived in English literature ever since because of it and is destined to live as long as eighteenth century English literature continues to be read.

MANY CELEBRITIES

It is not often that so many famous men are gathered together in a single club. At the head of the list stands Samuel Johnson, the literary dictator of his generation, whose mere word was usually sufficient either to make or unmake a new author and who later became the subject of the most famous biography in all world's literature. Then there was David Garrick, the most noted actor of his time, who interpreted Shakespeare to his generation so effectively that his name and Shakespeare's have been linked ever since. Sir Joshua Reynolds, the greatest portrait painter of his day and one of the greatest in the history of English art, belonged to that company. Oliver Goldsmith was a member who was the best known poet of his day and whom we of today still regard as worthy of a commanding place in English literary circles although rather far from Samuel Johnson. There have been some other famous literary clubs in English history but perhaps not one of them can compare with the organization that is closely identified with eighteenth century English literature. It was organized in 1764 at Turk's Head Tavern, Gerrard-st. Scho. and that tavern has lived in English literature ever since because of it and is destined to live as long as eighteenth century English literature continues to be read.

There has been nothing like it before or after in English literary history. There have been clubs galore and there are many of them today but seldom a club that counts in its membership practically all the well known names of writers and actors and artists of its generation. And even though many club has had a large number of names on its list that were noted at the moment, it is seldom that a club exists that had as members so many men whose fame has proved to be permanent.

There was, moreover, nothing solemn about this club. The members, if we are to believe Boswell's many references to it in his "Life of Johnson," did not come together to save the country or to bore one another with long orations. They came together chiefly for good talk. There was a great deal of drinking in the manner of the spacious days of the eighteenth century and the members sometimes had to help each other home. They were also playing all sorts of practical jokes on each other and setting intellectual traps for each other. Edmund Burke was always leading Oliver Goldsmith, who was something of a fop and a braggard, to make damaging admissions and then Burke would abandon his serious manner and turn the laugh of the whole company on poor Goldsmith.

But the dominating figure of the club was undoubtedly Samuel Johnson. Johnson loved to talk above all things. He would always rather talk than act, and what in spite of the fact that he was a glutton in eating. He is known in English literature more because of his talk than because of his writing. Much of his talk at the club was reported by Boswell in the famous "Life of Johnson" and Johnson's fame rests chiefly on these reports.

It was the most famous club in English literary history and it played a tremendous part in English literature of the eighteenth century. But it passed almost with its own generation. When the big figures that organized it died the vitality had gone out of it.

TEAMS BUNCHED AS
BOWLING LEAGUE
ENDS ITS SEASONKaukauna Lumber Co. Wins
Flag but Second Place Still Is in Doubt

Kaukauna — The city league bowling season has ended and victory has been conceded to the Kaukauna Lumber Co. bowlers. The league is finishing one of the most interesting and successful years with 11 teams closely grouped. Not more than eight games separates the leaders from the tailenders.

Kaukauna Lumber Co. has held the lead for several weeks, at first by a big margin. Their lead has been cut down gradually until they were forced to beat the Bankers last week to retain their place. The Bankers at present are holding second place but the team has one more match to roll which may effect its position.

A sensational comeback was staged by the Electric Service bowlers, who, after getting off to a good start and running among the leaders, took a bad slump until they hit the bottom. By winning nine games in a row, however, the team climbed up the ladder until they reached third place with a chance for a city championship.

Mueller Boots also put across a rally during the last few weeks of the schedule and as a result are safely in fourth place after trailing almost hopelessly near the bottom all year. The Boots have one more match with Pendegast's Creams.

The two postponed games will be rolled this week. Plans are being made now for a city bowling tournament. Each team may enter as often as its manager wishes but three men must be replaced each time.

No doubt at election time, the name of Lear will appear upon the ballot, as a remark was made that he had only begun to fight.

WOLFRATH CLAIMS
ALIBI IN MOTOR
CAR DAMAGE CASE

Court Adjourns to Allow Defense to Produce Proof of Absence from City

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—After a hot and heavy session Saturday morning in the local police court, the case of Ed. Wolfrath, charged with colliding with and damaging the automobile of Archie McKee was again adjourned for two weeks, until April 4, in order to allow the defendants lawyer, F. W. Grogan, of the firm of Rooney and Grogan of Appleton, to prove that Wolfrath was not in the city at all on the day which the accident occurred.

W. J. Butler, city attorney conducted the prosecution. Witnesses called were Francis Secord, Archie McKee, and the local motor policeman, Herman Draef.

In the collision the left rear fender was smashed, the tail light torn off, and a three cornered gash cut in the rear of the body of the McKee car, which was left parked, with the tail light burning, according to Mr. McKee, on E. Beacon-avenue in front of Charles Voss residence.

It is alleged that Wolfrath was driving a Ford touring car in the company of another man, whose name has not been divulged, and that he was drunk at the time.

The accident is said to have occurred on Sunday, Nov. 9. In the complaint a mistake was made in setting the date at Sunday, Nov. 9. Attorney Butler asked leave to have the complaint corrected, which was granted by the court. Attorney Grogan declared he could produce an affidavit from the foreman of a lumber camp to which Wolfrath went proving that he was not in New London on the Sunday mentioned. Court thereupon was adjourned to April 4.

STAGE AND SCREEN

CRITICS AND PUBLIC WONDERFULLY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER "THE MARK OF ZORRO"
Never before has Douglas Fairbanks waxed so enthusiastic over the success and admiration of a picture than he has over "The Mark of Zorro," his United Artists' production which will be the feature attraction at the New Bijou theatre today and Tuesday.
It is a dual role that Fairbanks is playing in the picture.

The Famous Romance of the West...

AMERICA'S most celebrated love story. It was one of the greatest theatrical successes of stage history. It has come to the screen in a blaze of glory—a drama of love and adventure in the great days of the old West.

The Great Divide

with ALICE TERRY CONWAY TEARLE WALLACE BEERY HUNTLY GORDON

A REGINALD BARKER Production

Scenario by Waldemar Young Adaptation by Benjamin Glazer Presented by LOUIS B. MAYER

See THIS MARVELOUS MOTION PICTURE!

Metro Goldwyn Picture

called upon to essay. As Don Diego Vega, the young man, he lends a secluded life. He exhibits a fondness for the companionship of books and quietness and amiable in disposition upon all occasions. Anything of an excitable nature was abhorrent to him and never was he found mingling with the populace in their various festivities. But when he became awakened to the oppression and persecution, without justification, of the natives by those in power, he felt that the time has already come to act. Disguised as Senor Zorro, we see him executing various exploits practically unaided in the attempt to free his people from the despot's yoke. He becomes transformed into a veritable dynamo of boundless energy. What a mass of new feats of skill he performs! There is a girl in the story that really furnishes the strong love interest.
With Noah Beery, Robert McKim, Charles Hill Mailes and Marguerite DeLaMotte, his leading lady, collected in his case, Fairbanks has left nothing undone to assure the public the best obtainable in motion pictures.

CAT IS "AUNTIE" NOT "CHARLEY"
You may be wondering what a grinning cat has to do with the plot of "Charley's Aunt" with Syd Chaplin which is about to start its run at Appleton Theatre. The answer is, nothing.
But behind the cat is an interesting story of the success of "Charley's Aunt" and its continuous run on the stage for upward of thirty-three years. It seems that when "Charley's Aunt" was first produced in England someone connected with the theatre used as an advertisement a picture of a funny looking black cat sitting up on its haunches grinning. Around its neck was a collar reading "Charley's Aunt," and underneath was the line "Funny enough to make a cat laugh."
The play was an instantaneous hit. It was put on in London and played in one theatre for over four years. The black cat came to be symbolic and was taken as a sign of the luck of "Charley's Aunt." It is known that the play made a fortune for W. S. Penley, the English star who first played the role. It made millions for its author, Brandon Thomas. When companies began to go out in foreign countries playing "Charley's Aunt" they would no more think of going out without the cat advertisement than they would have gone without taking Charley's famous skirt and wig.

WE WARN YOU!
Unless you are hysteric-proof—You better not see "CHARLEY'S AUNT" with SYD CHAPLIN. FUNNY? WHY, man, that word is as weak as prohibition beer when you use it to try to describe this picture. It's nothing short of an hysterical spasm. Before it's half over you'll be gasping for breath and wishing you could get a minute to catch up with the laughs.

"THE GREAT DIVIDE"
There have been a few pictures which have brought so great a message as that which is presented on the screen at the Elite Theatre where the Metro Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Great Divide" is being shown.
How three men gamble for a girl, with one ultimately coming out victorious, how she is then bought for a string of gold nuggets is told in a forceful way.
The cast is full of interesting names and the performances are all excellent though perhaps the two which stand out the most are those of Alice Terry, who plays Ruth Jordan, and Conway Tearle, cast as Stephen Ghent. There are the most important parts and the tremendous mental conflict between them is unlike anything that has been witnessed on the screen before.
Wallace Beery as Dutch and George Cooper as Shorty are likable heavies, and ZaSu Pitts as Polly brings out a pessimistic part prominently forward, which adds much comedy. William Harn Orlamond as Lon is ludicrously funny while Huntly Gordon, as Philip Jordan, and Allan Forrest as Dr. Winthrop Newbury, have roles of importance which have been justifiably entrusted to them.
Reginald Barker directed the production with a fine hand, and as his aid chose Percy Hilburn to photograph it. Mr. Hilburn did a great job. There has never been a screen offering before with more beautiful photography or more effective lighting than in "The Great Divide."

Yes, the big show—Loew's Mighty Vaudeville Circus—with regular clowns, including the famous Marcel line from the New York Hippodrome, cunning ponies, trick donkeys, educated animals; aerial stars, acrobats, tumblers and also show freaks comes to The Grand, Oshkosh, for a three day engagement Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 3, 4 and 5, under a stimulated canvas setting. Every beloved feature of the circus on the lot will be brought to the theatre—midway, slideshows, main entrance, slide-walls and saw dust.
In order to create the traditional big top atmosphere, Victor Hyde's "Educated Ponies" a double quintet of attractive girls from Broadway revues, will present spanglied entries and spectacles during the progress of the big show performances.

ONLY KINDLING LEFT WHERE STORM VENTED FURY

This is the first picture to come from Annapolis, Mo., where the tornado of March 13 marshaled its winds of death and havoc and sent them roaring through five states, whose death toll from the disaster totals approximately 1000.

A view of the residential district of Princeton, Ind., where houses were ripped from their foundations and shattered.

What was once the main street of Frankfort, Ill., reduced now to nothing but a pile of twisted debris and desolation, following the ruin and death that visited the town during the terrific tornado of March 13.

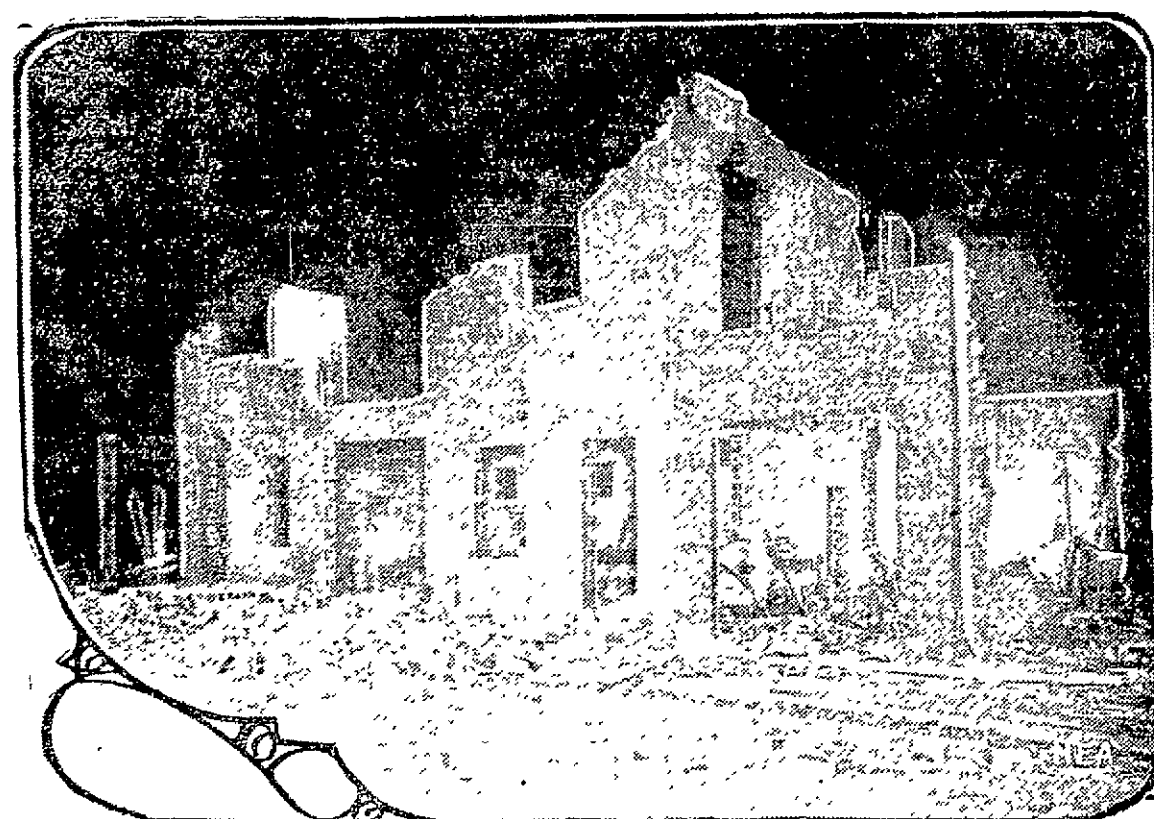

A little dog was the only survivor of a family at Griffin, Ind. The dog was sitting in the ruins when found by rescue squads.

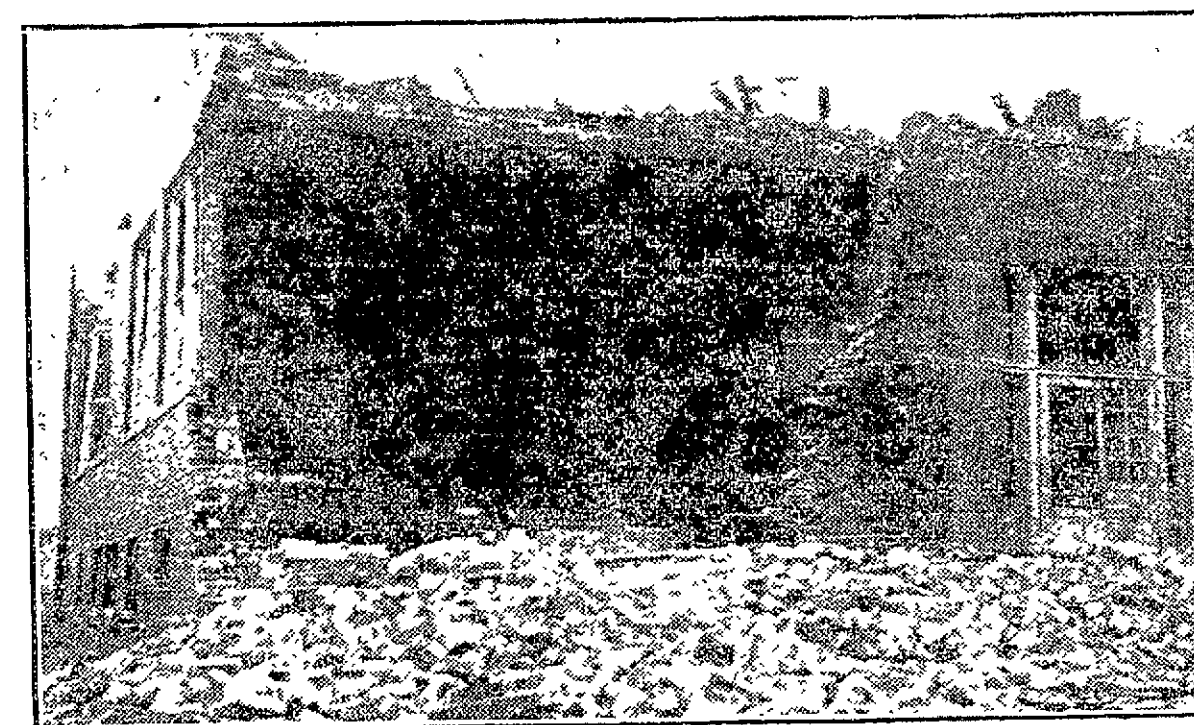

The efforts of a lifetime were smashed to bits by the tornado which crushed in houses like so many eggshells and left a trail of death and havoc in its wake. This picture, taken at Murphysboro, Ill., one of the towns hardest hit by the twister, gives some concept of the tornado's fury. Note the solid concrete walls in the foreground snatched from their foundations and hurled far and wide.

A little mantel clock (shown by arrow) in the home of George Doll, at Griffin, Ind., points its hands to the exact time the tornado struck—seven minutes to four. Mrs. Doll escaped with a broken arm.

This picture is that of a garage at Murphysboro. This building was considered one of the strongest in the city, but the winds demolished it in a few minutes Wednesday afternoon, killing several mechanics and auto salesmen.

Pupils had just left this school at Griffin, Ind., when the storm tore out a wall of a room, leaving the room intact.

Here is a view of the east side of Griffin, Ind., following the storm. Houses for blocks were splintered by the wind, trees torn out by their roots and business houses leveled.

Here is a view of Main street at Griffin, Ind., after the storm.

NECESSITY FORCES MORE EFFICIENCY IN FOREIGN CARS

British and French Engineers
Design Cheap Operating Cars

London — Necessity has forced Great Britain, and the rest of Europe for that matter, far ahead of America in automobile development.

High taxes, high maintenance costs have driven the engineer to design a car that will cost as little as possible and could be driven at the cheapest expense.

The result is a drove of small automobiles of even as low as seven horsepower, running about the streets of London, Paris and Berlin.

The British Morris is an example. It is designed in three models, ranging from a 12-horsepower car, costing less than $1,000 to an 18-horsepower vehicle selling for $2,400. Even the smallest model has equipment equal to many good cars in America.

FULLY EQUIPPED
There is a 12-volt ignition system with five lamps, a speedometer, an eight-day clock, oil and gasoline gauges on the dashboard, and a complete and efficient side curtain equipment for inclement weather.

Some of the smaller cars, like the British Austin, or the French Mathis, are of only seven horsepower. Yet they are designed to carry two passengers comfortably and go up to 45 miles an hour. Their gasoline requirements are low.

Opposed to these attempts at economy are some of the most gorgeous affairs ever seen on the streets of London—or New York. And even these are intended mostly for the colorful princes of India and other Asiatic countries, where lavishness and display persist.

A COMPROMISE

The Maharajah of Alwar, for instance, has had a Lanchester made especially for him. It looks more like an old-time horse-drawn coach than a modern automobile. But it is so constructed to give its owner the height of comfort and pleasure.

The coach body is built apart from the engine, so that an occupant could hardly believe he is being drawn by modern motive methods. It is said actually to float along, despite rocky and rutty roads.

The engine is of the six-cylinder, 40-horsepower type, and the chassis has a wheelbase of 178 inches, almost twice the length of a Ford. The body is elaborately ornamented.

The Maharajah of Rewa has a Lanchester sedan just as elaborately ornamented and specially equipped. This car has a special ventilating system so the maharajah may keep cool under the hottest rays of the Indian sun.

Even the windows are made of a special type of glass which is opaque only from the outside, keeping out the sun and the vision of curiosity seekers.

FREE EXAMINATION AT CHEST CLINIC

Residents of Appleton and Outagamie-co will derive the benefit of public health service in the free chest clinic to be given Friday and Saturday by the Appleton Womens club. The clinic conducted by Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis association.

The clinic will be held in the Playhouse of the club, and is free to men and women and children who wish to take advantage of the opportunity to have an examination for diseases of the heart and lungs.

Details will be arranged so that as large a number of applicants as possible can be accommodated. Examinations will be from 8:30 to 5:30 and those desiring to make reservations are asked to call the womens club or Mrs. C. O. Goehmauer, general chairman of clinics.

MOTORISTS ADVISED TO KEEP OFF DIRT-ROADS

Paved and main graveled highways in Wisconsin are in fair to good condition, according to the weekly road report of the highway commission. Snow has melted from the roads, but some are coated with ice due to freezing temperatures at night. The same conditions prevail in Upper Michigan and Minnesota, it is said.

Throughout the middle west, conditions are good for this time of year. It is said. Dirt roads are bad, due to frost coming out of the ground, and fluctuating changes in temperature. In warm weather, dirt roads are soft, rutted and slippery. In cold weather a crust freezes over the surface, making them more treacherous. Motorists are advised to avoid all dirt roads wherever possible at this time.

COLLEGE SECOND QUARTER ENDS AS EXAMS START

Work of the second quarter ended Monday when regular class work at Lawrence college gave way to examinations. Examinations will be conducted Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and the spring vacation will begin Friday.

The spring quarter will begin Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4, with registration for the third quarter's work in the college library.

As soon as school closes for this term, two organizations will begin tours, the glee club starting its trip to the southern part of the state, and a Lawrence debate team invading the west. ASK SHIPPER VOTE ON FREIGHT TRUCE

Chamber of Commerce Will Send Representative to Chicago to Vote on Compromise

Discussion of a compromise agreement on western trunk line freight rates will be taken up at a meeting of shippers in Chicago Wednesday at which Appleton Chamber of Commerce will be represented. The conference will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning in the Red room of Hotel LaSalle.

Shippers appear agreed on the necessity for an increase in railroad revenue in order to keep the service up to a high point of efficiency but the new schedule proposed by the carriers was so high as to be detrimental to the interests of many concerns. The steering committee of 400 western shippers who are combatting the increase has prepared a compromise which grants the railroads a nominal raise in all classes of freight but one. This will be submitted to the shippers for adoption or rejection at the meeting Wednesday.

It is understood that the paper manufacturers of the Fox river valley also are working through their trade associations to prevent an unjust increase in freight rates. They also will be represented at the meeting. About $10,000 a month will be saved shippers if the heavy increases are prevented.

LIKE ZONING HERE, OSHKOSH IS TOLD

Appleton is pleased with the results of her zoning ordinance. Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, declared in a letter sent to George Randall, city engineer of Oshkosh. Oshkosh is considering zoning and opponents of the proposed measure have pointed out the alleged, disastrous effects of the zoning law in other cities, especially Appleton.

Mr. Connelly's letter to the Oshkosh city engineer, follows:

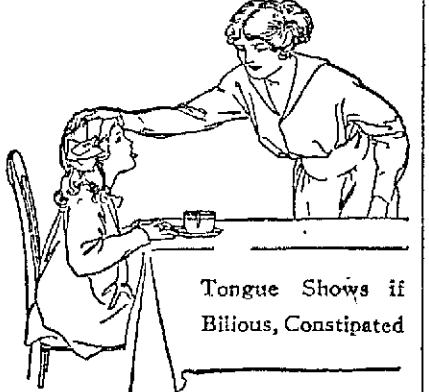

"I notice from the newspapers that there seems to be an impression in Oshkosh that our (Appleton) zoning law is unsatisfactory and that we are about to abolish it.

"With the progress of time, we are becoming more and more pleased with it and I am sure that no one could ever take away the zoning law from Appleton.

"Dollars and cents could never measure the benefits we have already derived and it is only to be regretted that the city has not zoned many years sooner. It was my impression that you would be interested in knowing these facts, since your city is carrying on some work of this nature at this time."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

WAR DEPARTMENT CONDEMNS CANAL TO DIVERT FLOOD

Duck Creek Canal Project Would Cost More Than Possible Benefits

The project of constructing a drainage canal from Shiocton on the Wolf river to Duck Creek in Brown co to divert flood water from the Wolf river to Green Bay via Duck creek received a death blow in an adverse report from the war department to the town board of the town board of the town of Howard, Brown co. The town of Howard was the principal opponent of the plan, contending that if the canal were dug connecting the Wolf river with Duck creek and diverting the surplus flow to Green Bay through Duck creek, the country along the canal and the creek might be inundated at high water, unless provisions were made for widening and deepening the creek channel and raising the bridges over it.

The proposed canal would have been nearly a score of miles long and the entire project would have required an expenditure of millions of dollars.

COST TOO MUCH

The unfavorable report from the war department directed to the town board of Howard states that the chief reason for its action was the fact that the expense of the project would be far in excess to the benefits derived. Furthermore it states that drainage and reclamation of the territory affected might best be secured by the work of the owners cooperating in drainage or levee districts or otherwise.

All interested parties have the privilege of appeal from the war department conclusion according to the report. Appeals should be made to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, a permanent body sitting at Washington, D. C. within four weeks of this communication. Extension of this time may be secured, however by application to the board, if the interested parties have important data collected within the specified time.

Any further information needed, the report states, may be had by applying to the war department at Washington.

SCHOOL DISTRICT DECIDES TO BUILD 1-ROOM SCHOOL

A decision to build a one-room school house at Joint District No. 2, Maple Creek was reached at an informal meeting of the citizens of the district at the school Friday afternoon. The school had been condemned for several years, but the people of the district had disagreed on a type of building. After talks and discussions led by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and George S. Dick, of the state board of education, a decision to build a one-room school was reached by an informal vote of 22 to 5. A special meeting will be called to legalize the action on March 30.

Mr. Meating and Mr. Dick attended the meeting to assist in selecting a type of building so that the children of the district can be properly cared for.

SIX BOYS REGISTER FOR MANITOWISH "Y" CAMP

Appleton is tied with Chicago for second place in the number of boys registered for the state Y. M. C. A. summer sessions at Camp Manitowish at Boulder Junction, according to the March bulletin issued by the state Y. M. C. A. Six local boys have their names on the register. Milwaukee, which always heads the list, has nine boys enrolled. The camp session is divided into two week periods between June and September.

The bulletin shows a decided increase in early registration over 1924. On March 16, 1924, fifteen registrations were listed as compared with forty-five on March 15, 1925. Chicago leads who were allowed to attend Manitowish for the first time about four years ago when a group of six spent two weeks there, now they are its chief opponents. The Windy City sends more boys than many of the larger Wisconsin cities do to their own state camp.

Appleton's delegates to this year's camp to date are Carl Wettengel, Trost Thomas, Thaddeus Mayer, Roy Marston, Nathan Spector and Theodore Bolton.

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS WILL MEET IN WAUSAU

About a dozen Appleton fire insurance agents are planning to attend the 1925 convention of the Wisconsin Association of Insurance Agents at Wausau, August 19-20. The date and place of the convention were decided upon last week at a conference of the executive board with President Earl Eiske at Green Bay.

It was decided to hold the meeting in August in preference to the usual dates in October because of important matters pressing for attention as soon as possible. Wausau was selected because of its central location. The officers stated it is necessary that the full membership attend.

The 1924 convention was held at Green Bay with about 200 members in attendance.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading prepared for Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Poise

Read Lk. 10:38-42. Text: 10:41.

Thou art anxious and troubled about many things.

MEDITATION—Life ever tends to become complex. We undertake to do too many things and are too hurried in our preparation. Jesus commended Mary for sitting at his feet and learning the lessons of life and at the same time cautioned Martha about her anxieties. That we might take time to think and to plan our lives with care! Then we should not so frequently lack poise and self-control.

"Thine own self will and anxiety, thy hurry and thy labor, disturb thy peace and prevent Me from working in thy life. Look at the flowers, they quietly open their petals and the sun shines into them with gentle influences. So will I do for thee, if thou wilt yield thyself to me."

PRAYER—O Lord, "Thou art as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. Support us all the day long, and as the shadows lengthen and the feverish work of the day is done, grant us time to think of thee and of thy mercy and love. Help us to choose the best part and to yield our lives to thy life-giving power. Amen."

LIGHTS SUGGEST SCENES FOR PLAY

Three Pleading One-act Plays
Are Presented by College Students

Suggested scenes rather than an exact representation made the settings of the plays presented by the college dramatic art class Friday night and Saturday afternoon seem unique and different. The settings of the three plays were in different places, but one drape set was used for the three plays, the difference of location being suggested by the use of lights and properties.

J. Alden Behnke and Helen Hen best, Appleton, as Leon and Evelyn, presented the first play, "The Constant Lover" by St. John Hankin. The scene in this case was in a garden.

The scene of the second play was a room adjoining a ball room. The play was "The Impertinence of the Creature" by Cosmo Gordon Lennox. Helen Norris, Manitowish acted the part of Lady Millicent, and Winifred

UNCLE SAM PUTS BAN ON GOLD SHIPMENTS BY MAIL

Gold coin, gold bullion and gold dust in quantities whose value exceeds $50 can not be shipped through the United States mails, according to an order issued recently by Harry S. New, postmaster general. The difficulty of handling and transshipping large shipments of gold in foreign ports is given as the reason for the prohibition.

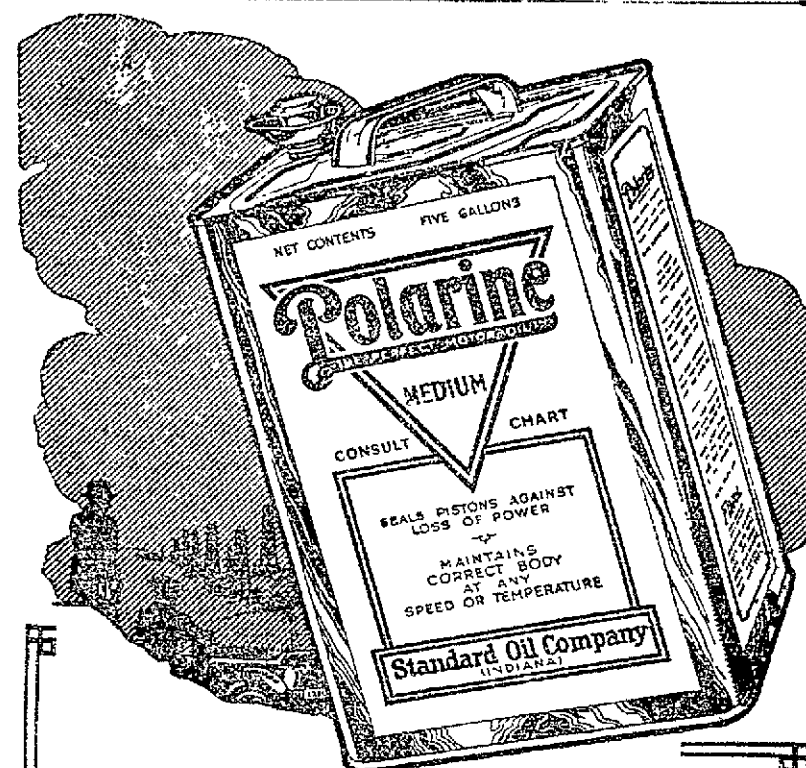

Durd, River Falls, was the Gentleman.

The third play, which was easily the most popular with the audience, was "Suppressed Desires" by George Ham Cook and Susan Glasspel. Stephen Brewster, an architect, was played by Alden Behnke, Marie Finckel Appleton, acted the part of his wife Henrietta, and Arvella Austin, Green Bay was her sister, Mable. The play was a farce, concerning psychoanalysis. The action took place in the living room of the Brewster's home, which is also Stephen's studio.

Polarine
THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL

Made in Six Grades

Insures the Life of Your Motor

The quality of the crude oils used in manufacturing a lubricating oil is exceedingly important in assuring lubricating efficiency.

Polarine is manufactured from selected mixed base crudes, so combined as to give a high flash point and a low cold test. It meets the exacting S. A. E. specifications.

Polarine has the right flash test—high enough to assure an oil which will not evaporate from the cylinder walls and bearings when the normal engine heat develops—and low enough to burn when it enters the combustion chamber.

Polarine correctly lubricates all frictional surfaces. Polarine resists heat and wear. Polarine has the right cold test.

The viscosity of each grade of Polarine conforms exactly to the conditions it is designed to meet.

Polarine is manufactured scientifically and with chemical accuracy, so maintain an unbroken film of oil between frictional surfaces in all engines, regardless of weather, season or working conditions.

Polarine is made in six grades. It gives complete satisfaction in all types and makes of automobile engines.

Based upon our intimate knowledge of the scientific constitution of Polarine, we assert, confidently, that Polarine will lengthen the life of your engine and pay royal dividends in the form of repair costs saved. It is the best life insurance your motor can have.

Fill up with Polarine; then, drain your crankcase every 500 miles and refill with the correct grade of Polarine. That is true economy. There is a grade for your car. See chart.

Kimberly Loses State Cage Title To Racine, 27 To 24

Hard Luck On Free Throws Licks K-C Quint In Tourney

Loose, Koll and Scheurle Star for Papermakers in State Championship Game—Sandelin High Man for Racine Five

Missing 11 free throws in 11 tries Kimberly-Clark basketball team went down to defeat in the final game of the state amateur cage championship Saturday night at Racine before the speedy Davies Shoe five of that city by a 27 to 24 count. It was the best game of the entire meet. The Kimberly quint scored 12 ringers to 11 for the Racine five, but the local boys dropped 5 free throws. It was the second consecutive year that the Racine crew has taken the title. On Friday the Papermakers dropped 11 of 13 free throws but won a hard victory from the Madison Y. M. C. A. quint.

Kimberly-Clark entered the finals by defeating Janesville 27 to 22 Saturday afternoon while the Shoes won from Menominee 24 to 14. Janesville copped the consolation title by beating Menominee 27 to 25 in the first game of the evening.

The second evening's game was a thriller from start to finish. Racine lead at the end of the first half, 12 to 8 but Kimberly evened the count shortly after the start of the second period and the two teams battled on even terms for the remainder of the game, with the Kimberly quint losing at least four opportunities to putting the game on ice by missing tries from the safety mark.

Sandelin, Racine's forward, with four field goals, a pair of free throws, and Loose of Kimberly, with five shots from the field were the individual stars. Loose scored five ringers, Scheurle and Koll, three apiece, and Cooke, one for the Kimberly quint.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended basket ball games at Racine was present and the exciting and hardfought games kept the hall in a continuous uproar.

The lineup:

Sandelin, f.	4	2	0	1
Grover, f.	2	0	1	0

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Kimberly-Clark's quint of fighters ran into a little hard luck when it outscored Racine in the state title match on field goals but lost on free tries. The gang played some great games this year for a new combination and will show all the state quints some real basketball if they hang together next year.

Brandon, winners of second place in the district meet here, is walking away with all the teams in a district tourney for amateur teams to be held at Fondy, walloping some all star independent quintets. Clark and Raby, forwards, are the heavy scorers.

Green Bay has the real dope when it comes to amateur boxing. The Legion is drawing fine crowds to their amateur shows to pick the champ of Brown-co. In the last set of fights, there were three knockouts in five scraps.

The best game of the first day's play at Madison should be the Lac-Croze-Superior tilt to our way of thinking. Both have the "goods" and it should be a battle royal. Superior with three vets back from its second-place team of 1924 should have the edge.

We now take our prerogative of picking winners (?) in advance. Here's our dope for the first day's play at Madison: Watch Thursday's papers for the correct solution to this crossword puzzle. They are Appleton, Beloit, Shawano, Eau Claire Superior, Manitowish, Wausau, and Neenah. Punk'll disagree on the last choice.

Everyone has an opinion and is entitled to it. This column is open to public use and abuse. Make use of it. Drop us your "line" and if it won't burn the sheet, it will be used. Come on with your sport views—shoot 'em in! Especially on the big doings of the week, the state tourney.

KOLB AND BRANDT MEET IN THREE-CUSHION MATCH

"Doc" Kolb and A Brandt will meet in a first-round game of the handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at the Bachman and Hant-schel Billiard Parlors at 8 o'clock Monday evening. Kolb must make 21 counts while Brandt is knocking off 15. Tuesday evening the first-round games will be partners and winners will be drawn for the consolation round to start on Wednesday night. The meet has been drawing large crowds each night.

PORTAGE HIGH IS WINNER OF RIPON TOURNAMENT

Ripon—Portage high school won the Ripon invitational cage tournament here Saturday night by defeating Stevens Point in a hard fought contest, 24 to 13. Ripon copped third place by winning from Wausau 23 to 9. Referee Wyman and Stoddard announced the following all tournament team: O'Leary, Portage, Jr; Capt. Fishleigh, Stevens Point, Jr; H. Rehboitz, Portage, Jr; R. Rehboitz, Portage, Jr; W. Sheehan, Jr.

WISCONSIN MAN APPOINTED GRID COACH AT COLGATE

Hamilton, N. Y. — Earl C. Abel of Horicon, Wis., has been appointed assistant coach of football at Colgate. It was announced Sunday. He will begin his work April 1. He was captain of the Colgate team in 1915 and was selected for Walter Camp's all-American eleven. Since graduating he coached at Virginia Military Institute, University of the South and Mississippi A and M.

To Play First

RUBE BRESSLER

Orlando — First base is the only worry of Manager Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds. The job has been assigned to Rube Bressler, handy man of the team. If he delivers it means much to the club's chances.

Bressler began his career as a pitcher with Connie Mack years ago. His ability to hit caused him to be converted into an outfielder and first baseman.

The third game which should prove a struggle throughout the 50 minutes will be between Neenah and Wisconsin Rapids as they line up for the last game of the day at 9 o'clock.

Neenah exhibited power by defeating the Wisconsin district and Wisconsin Rapids has been winning the majority of its games this season.

Any of the other teams are likely to spring surprises and eliminate the supposedly stronger teams, as has been demonstrated by other tournaments and officials of this year's contest look for hard games throughout the three days.

Spring football practice, long in the discard at Lawrence college will be revived with the coming spring and Mark S. Catlin, the wonder coach, has announced he will have his grid warriors in uniform throughout the better part of the months of April and May.

The loss of eight regulars, of which seven are linemen, hits the line pretty hard and Coach Catlin is looking for men to fill these gaps. The fast shift 1924 backfield consisting of Capt. elect Kotla, fleet triple-threat star, Briese, Nason, Heideman and Zuassman, with the aid of a fast, hard hitting line, and the presence of unusually brilliant freshman material and a number of last season's ineluctables indicates that the Blue and White will be represented by another strong eleven next fall.

The schedule is the heaviest in Lawrence history and Coach Catlin and his assistants "Dutch" Sylvester, "Liz" Blackburne, and "Swede" Olson are anxious to get a line on their men in advance of the fall season.

Seven hard games are included on the 1925 schedule and with the all-important classic with Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to dedicate the new athletic field, booked for October 17, it will be necessary to get the men in shape early. Oshkosh Normal and Northwestern college of Watertown will come before the Coe game, and those following on successive Saturdays are Ripon, Hamline university of St. Paul, Carroll and Beloit.

There were several changes among the high ten of each event yesterday but none of the competitors bowled quite good enough to displace the leaders.

Herb's Indians of Cleveland, winners of the tournament last year with a total of 3,044 pins, went into second place Sunday night with a score of 2,905.

Frank Karsheiser of Chicago, who followed his five-man score of 500 Saturday night with 621 in the doubles and 650 in the singles, for a total of 1,853 in all-events, placed second, four pins behind the leader.

A Milwaukee pair, Andy Planer and John Fischer, did best in the two-man event, scoring 1,253 pins, which ties for third place. High score in the singles yesterday was 667, rolled by William Wauk of Cleveland, who now occupies eighth position.

Fourteen Detroit teams howl Monday night, others to appear being from Canton, Alcon, New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Erie, Pittsburgh, and Rochester. William J. Herb's Indians of Cleveland, winners of the tournament last year with a total of 3,044 pins, went into second place Sunday night with a score of 2,905.

Frank Karsheiser of Chicago, who followed his five-man score of 500 Saturday night with 621 in the doubles and 650 in the singles, for a total of 1,853 in all-events, placed second, four pins behind the leader.

A Milwaukee pair, Andy Planer and John Fischer, did best in the two-man event, scoring 1,253 pins, which ties for third place. High score in the singles yesterday was 667, rolled by William Wauk of Cleveland, who now occupies eighth position.

Fourteen Detroit teams howl Monday night, others to appear being from Canton, Alcon, New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Erie, Pittsburgh, and Rochester. William J. Knox, all-events champion in 1923, and the only bowler who has a 300 score in an A B C tournament is a member of one of the Philadelphia teams. The leaders are:

Five-man event, North Center Allys, Chicago, 2,337; two-man event, Mills Schieber, Detroit, 1,238; individual event, H. Mahlenbach, Jersey City 703, and all-events D. Davito, Chicago, 1,892.

There were several changes among the high ten of each event yesterday but none of the competitors bowled quite good enough to displace the leaders.

Orange-New Glarus Game To Feature Openers At Madison

Superior and Eau Claire, Neenah and Wisconsin Rapids, Other Big Games in First Day's Tourney Play

Madison—The opening day of the 10th Annual High School Basketball tournament will be the day of the biggest battles if the strength of the opposing teams in pre-tournament games is considered.

Appleton vs New Glarus, Eau Claire vs Superior Central, Neenah vs Wisconsin Rapids—it is in these three games that followers of high school basketball expect to see quiet evenly matched fighting to the finish for the right to continue in the playing.

New Glarus, a small village in Southern Wisconsin, is backing its team of as yet undefeated players to finish high in the tournament. Appleton high school, however, usually sends top notch teams to the final meet and the team last year, especially, was feared up to the last day. Taking the strength of both squads into account, the Appleton-New Glarus contest opening the tournament at 10 a. m. next Wednesday should be a thriller.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, Eau Claire and Superior Central will take the court. Superior, second place winner last year and playing three men of the 1924 team will have no easy time to stem the powerful offense of Eau Claire.

The third game which should prove a struggle throughout the 50 minutes will be between Neenah and Wisconsin Rapids as they line up for the last game of the day at 9 o'clock. Neenah exhibited power by defeating the Wisconsin district and Wisconsin Rapids has been winning the majority of its games this season.

Any of the other teams are likely to spring surprises and eliminate the supposedly stronger teams, as has been demonstrated by other tournaments and officials of this year's contest look for hard games throughout the three days.

BIG FIELD TO PICK FROM IN PRIMARY ELECTION TUESDAY

Hot Contests for Nomination for Aldermen in Three of City's Wards

Three names of an unusually large number of candidates for city offices are named on the ballots to be used in the primary election here on Tuesday. The polls open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 8 o'clock at night.

Because of the fact that this is the first year for election interest has been keen for a year ago, but in the first fifth and sixth wards there has been considerable preliminary campaigning. In the first and fifth wards there are four candidates for the nomination and in the sixth ward are seeking the opportunity of casting in the final.

The ballots will be printed at the following places:

First ward, first precinct—First ward school Franklin at Second precinct—Store at 512 E. College ave.

Second ward, first precinct—Central Motor Car Co. 127 E. Washington-st. Second precinct—Resident City Hall S. One-half-st.

Third ward, first precinct—Reo Garage, 527 W. College-ave. Second precinct—Corner Spencer and Outagamie-sts.

Fourth ward—First precinct—Corner Maple Grove-st and Walnut-ave. Second precinct—Fourth ward school.

Fifth ward, first precinct—Public service building, stock fairgrounds. Second precinct—Rear of 715 Harriet-st.

Sixth ward, first precinct—229 E. Commercial-st. Second precinct—808 N. Appleton.

Competition in every ward with the exception of the second promises to be hard and close for aldermen. There is but one candidate in the "second ward"—William Eckert, who now holds aldermanic office in that ward.

In the sixth ward there are seven candidates, a record for the ward and the city. Thomas P. Davis, Phillo West, Herman B. Beeke, J. H. Fletcher, Albert H. Gores, Fred W. Wieser, and John C. Hanson are in the race from that ward. The first and fifth wards are next with four candidates each.

In the first ward candidates are William O. Clark, Howell G. Thomas, Mark S. Collin and Peter Greich. In the fifth ward they are William Vanderheyden, Charles Pose, E. R. Rachow, and H. A. Bafke.

Robert F. McGillan, William De Young and John C. Hamel are running in the fourth ward. Francis X. Bachman and Charles W. Smith in the third, and William Eckert in the second.

While the polls will close at 8 o'clock anyone standing in line at that time will be permitted to cast his vote.

HI-Y DEPUTATION TEAM CONDUCTS CHURCH SERVICE

Services at the Emmanuel Evangelical church were conducted by the deputation team of Appleton HI-Y Club Sunday evening. The group consists of Edward Hossman, club president, Robert Packard, Kenneth St. Clair Andrews, Montgomery and Everette Roudesh. The Rev. H. A. Bernhardt, pastor of the church, gave a short talk and Everette Roudesh played a piano solo.

Members of the HI-Y club attended the church in a body and sang the club song during the service.

ALFRED BREITRICK VOTED BEST HUSTLER FOR MONTH

Alfred Breitrick was declared Grand Hustler for the last month and was awarded the prize, a league baseball at the monthly banquet of the Hustler club Sunday noon at the Y. M. C. A. Breitrick scored 379 points and Walter Moore finished a close second with 375 points.

Talks by leaders emphasized that the members should work extra hard during this month when the largest number of points can be acquired. It was estimated that at least 20 boys would gain the select circle. The competition closes on April 15.

Call Judge To Prescribe For Wanderlust

Today may be the "official" first day of spring, but it's been here for several days, at least in the first ward where several parents have been obliged to deal with children afflicted with the annual spring malady of wanderlust.

Two children of the district were stricken with spring fever on Friday and their temperatures ran so high that they were unable to resist the attack. The only known remedy was to "run away" and this they proceeded to do. After frightening their parents for several hours they were captured and received a remedy that probably will prevent future attacks. Besides the home lecture course, one of Appleton's well-known judges was called upon to administer the final dose, and his fiery tongue frightened the youngsters so that the grass will always look greenest on the inside of the fence for them.

Clubs Hold Meetings
Meetings of the Freshman Triangle, Blackhawk and Porter clubs will be held Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Routine business will occupy the evening for all three clubs.

EASTER FESTIVAL FREE TO PUBLIC ON FIRST EVENING

Committee Arranges for Distribution of Tickets for Second Performance

Admission to the annual Easter community musical festival will be free to the Appleton public on Sunday evening, April 12, and a charge will be made for seats Monday night when the people of the surrounding community and those from the city wishing reserved seats will attend.

This decision was reached by the general committee in charge of the festival at a meeting Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Seymour Gmeiner, chairman, presided. Distribution of tickets this year will be handled at the Y. M. C. A. office. A committee consisting of the Rev. J. L. Menzner and E. I. Madison was appointed to arrange for printing of the tickets. These will be issued at once and the reservation of seats will commence on Monday, April 6.

There are 184 persons who signed cards at the festival last year to become guarantors for the 1925 project to the amount of one dollar each. A ticket will be sent to each, giving first opportunity to obtain seats for the Monday evening program.

The report of the 1924 festival was presented by Frank Young, treasurer, showing a balance which will help to defray expenses being incurred in the preliminary work. An offering will be taken at the Easter Sunday performance to help pay the costs.

Final rehearsal of the chorus of girls club members and townspeople who will participate in the Easter presentation of "The Creation," will be held at 7:30 Monday evening in Lawrence Memorial chapel. The presentation of Messiah last year attracted a large audience, and it is planned to make the Easter celebration in this manner an annual affair.
